A rare opportunity has arisen for the Asia-Pacific region...

A possible new Vipassana long-course centre

To be called...

DHAMMA RASA

Now your help is needed

A rare opportunity has arisen to purchase a property ideally suited for a new dedicated long-course centre. Located in Queensland, Australia, this proposed new centre will serve the Asia-Pacific region and will be called Dhamma Rasa (Nectar of Dhamma). It will be the first dedicated long-course centre in the southern hemisphere and the second in the West, and it will be located right next to Dhamma Rasmi, a long-established Dhamma centre.

A Dhamma Trust has been formed and a contract to purchase the land has been signed; now your help is needed to make Dhamma Rasa a reality.

Donations and loans are needed to help secure this rare opportunity and purchase this property.

The Dhamma Rasa Trust has plans for a world-class, two-storey pagoda, with 108 individual cells for all long-course students

To make a donation, offer a loan or find out more about supporting Dhamma Rasa, please visit the website: dhammarasa.org

Send an email to info@dhammarasa.org or call 61-0406-611-830

All donations are tax deductible for Australian residents. US residents can also receive a tax deduction by donating via Vipassana Charitable Foundation.